Academic Advising & Student Learning Goals:

Consistent academic advising meetings will expose students to important information, resources, and opportunities that will aid student success. Advising within the Norton School of Human Ecology is committed to working collaboratively with students as they work toward the following learning goals.

- Students will demonstrate knowledge of university and college academic policies and procedures
- Students will demonstrate knowledge of FITS academic curriculum, including all requirements needed to graduate according to personal timeline and goals
  - Students will learn the role of their academic advisors in their college education, and will learn how and where to locate their academic advisors when needed
  - Students will learn how to find and utilize their academic advisement report and FITS catalog checklist, and will construct an academic plan for graduation
  - Students will learn how to navigate university websites in order to find policy information regarding dates and deadlines, withdrawing from courses, financial aid and tuition, and academic requirements
- Students will demonstrate increased responsibility for making decisions regarding academic, personal, and professional goals
  - Students will learn how to find and utilize university resources that will support individual needs and promote academic success
  - Students will learn how to seek guidance from faculty and advisors, and will develop connections that support their academic and professional growth
- Students will demonstrate an understanding of career and professional development opportunities
  - Students will learn how to connect with the FITS internship coordinator and other on-campus career development services
  - Students will critically reflect upon academic and career goals through advising conversations, personal exploration, and participation in extracurricular experiences

Make the Most of Academic Advising: Before, During, and After Your Meeting

Before: Review your academic advisement report, familiarize yourself with dates and deadlines, come prepared with a FITS catalog checklist, bring questions. Remember to cancel 24 hours in advance if you cannot attend

During: Arrive on time, sign in at the front for in person meetings, put phones and other distractions away, share your goals, be open about how things are going academically and personally, ask questions, & take notes

After: Keep an advising folder with information from all meetings, complete follow up steps and seek resources that your advisor recommended, ask follow-up questions if anything is unclear after your meeting

Advising Roles and Responsibilities

Student Responsibilities

- Read University Email Daily
